WAY TO BADAJOZ DECLARED OPENED BY GOVERNMENT VICTORY

Glen Cunningham, above, the U.S. Olympic athlete, broke the world's record for 800 Metres when he clocked 1 min. 49.7 secs. in Stockholm yesterday. This time bettered the previous world mark held by T. Hamson (Britain) and B. Eastman (U.S.), by one-tenth of a second.

LI WILL FIGHT TO THE LAST KWANGSI WARLORD INTERVIEWED ALLIANCE RUMOURS UNCONFIRMED

Canton, To-day.

"I will fight even with my last soldier and cartridge and will not leave Kwangsi," boasted General Li Chung-jen, head of the Kwangsi armies in an interview at Nanning last night.

General Li has been appointed a member of the standing committee of the Military Affairs Commission in Nanking, but he refuses to go there and insists on sticking to his troops in Kwangsi.

With a People's Anti-Japanese and National Salvation Government scheduled to be formed on September 1, Mr. Liu Lu-yin, a member of the new government and former propaganda director of Canton and Nanking, is busy drafting a manifesto on the aims and policy of the new venture.

The House of Commons was told last month by a foreign affairs representative that Heligoland was being refortified by Germany without the consent of Great Britain. This strategic island, shown on the map above, was ceded to Germany by Britain in 1890. The airview below shows the fortifications (indicated by crosses) which Germany was forced to dismantle after the World War. Top is one of the big guns being taken from its emplacement.

ZINOVIEFF TRIAL IN MOSCOW NO EFFORT BY ACCUSED TO DEFEND HIMSELF KAMENEFF ADMITS GUILT

Moscow, To-day.

"I plead guilty before the working-class world because I know that every word pronounced will be universally broadcast," declared Zinovieff before the court-room microphone in the Soviet conspiracy trial. For two hours Zinovieff, the shadow of his former self, described the plot to kill M. Stalin without making any effort to defend himself. He confirmed all the prosecution's allegations and explained that the chances of a coup seemed best in 1932 because of the unfavourable economic conditions. The possibility of seizing power resulted in the formation of a bloc consisting of the Trotsky, Zinovieff and Bukharin factions.

The entire Soviet press continues its violent agitation against the defendants and demands death-sentences.

At the resumption of the trial of Zinovieff and the other ex-Soviet leaders, Kameneff testified that Trotsky and himself were the organisers of the terrorist plot. They were angry with the party leadership and were craving to take the power from it, but were excluded by the progress of historical events.

In August 1934 it was decided to hasten the terroristic activities. During this period Trotsky received through Dreitzer directions regarding the speeding up of the terroristic action against M. Stalin.

Replying to the Attorney-General, Kameneff confirmed his leading role in the organisation for the assassination of M. Kiroff. The attempt to kill M. Stalin was to be made last May Day during the demonstrations at the Red Square, according to the testimony of Oldberg, who stated that simultaneous attempts were to be made on the lives of the other Soviet leaders in Leningrad and Kiev.

He prepared a bomb and arranged with student supporters of Trotsky to throw it when marching past M. Stalin in the Red Shanghai dispatches stated that Kwangsi is in alliance with Japan and Soviet Russia, but confirmation is lacking. As Japan and Russia are pursuing different policies, it is considered unlikely in well-informed circles here that both will back Kwangsi.

The establishment of a separate government in Kwangsi will make it necessary for General Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Executive Yuan, who is now in Canton, to send a punitive expedition to suppress the rebels.

TRADE REVIVAL
A trade revival in Canton under the present regime is expected in commercial and financial circles owing to the cancellation of certain taxes at the recommendation of General Chiang Kai-shek.

Cancellation of various oppressive taxes will bring about a loss of $2,000,000 a month. This deficit will be overcome by economy, efficient collection and the dismissal of surplus officials.

The business depression in Canton was due largely to heavy taxation and the competition between Government factories and private concerns.

General Chiang Kai-shek has also recommended the abolition of any Government undertaking in industry which hurts private enterprises, for in the past many manufacturers were deprived of their trade owing to Government competition. Hereafter the Government factories will either operate on a non-competitive basis or will be leased to private firms.

Merchants are also of the opinion that through traffic between the Canton-Hankow Railway with the Canton-Kowloon will revive trade conditions in South China in general, and an arrangement to this effect may materialise in the near future.

OPTIMISTIC SPIRIT HOSTILITY AGAINST NATIONALISTS

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Madrid, To-day.

The reports issued by the War Ministry regarding the position on the various fronts is characterised by an optimistic spirit. Stress is laid upon the fact that everywhere the population is taking up a hostile attitude against the Nationalists, and that the larger cities in the country are firm in the hands of the Government troops.

In the capital itself, from where accurate reports and corroboration of messages are extremely difficult to obtain, special tribunals are busily engaged in dealing with the list of 273 trials of persons accused of participation in the military revolt.

Press reports state that amongst the accused are three Generals, seven Colonels, six Lieutenants-Colonels, 20 Majors, 26 Captains, 108 Lieutenants and many non-commissioned officers.

The Marxist Workers' Trade Union have raised 250 men for the Workers' Militia. The company is under the command of a flying officer and bears the name "Rosa Luxemburg."

By a decree of the Foreign Ministry, 34 Spanish Consuls and officials of the diplomatic service have been dismissed in addition to those already relieved of their posts.

FRENCH CRITICISM
Hendaye: In its issue of yesterday the San Sebastian paper Fronte Popular declares that the French Ambassador to Spain, M. Herbet, visited the Governor of the Province and expressed his condemnation of von Schuschnigg, and that they will meet Herr Hitler later at Berchtesgaden or some other spot in Bavaria, but no confirmation is forthcoming of this suggestion. — Reuter.

ADM. HORTHY IN VIENNA

Much Speculation Aroused

MEETING WITH SCHUSCHNIGG AND HITLER?

Vienna, To-day.

Speculation has been aroused by the sudden arrival in Vienna of Admiral Horthy, Regent of Hungary. It is pointed out in political circles that this is the first time Admiral Horthy has left Hungary since he assumed the Regency. Moreover, he has done so on the Hungarian national holiday.

But the official communique merely states that Admiral Horthy is the guest of the Austrian Government for a hunting expedition in North Tyrol. It is rumoured that Admiral Horthy may be joined by Dr.

MADRID SITUATION IMPROVES THE BEGINNING OF THE END?

REBEL WARSHIP REPORTED TO BE OUT OF ACTION

Madrid, To-day.

The way to Badajoz has been opened by a Government victory at Estramadura. According to official claims the Loyalists have captured Alia in the Guadalupe Mountains. The position at Madrid is also much improved, according to the Minister of War, who, after a Cabinet meeting, declared: "The enemy has been prevented from crossing the Guadarrama Mountains. To-day marks the beginning of the end for them. The Government has routed the insurgent column and the district of Naval Peral is completely cleared of insurgents."

The Almirante Cervera, the only warship in rebel hands with anti-aircraft guns, is stated to be sinking and unable to reach Ferrol for repairs. It was last seen steaming slowly westward towards Gijon with a heavy list.

Berlin: Another preliminary condition has arisen for Germany's participation in the general neutrality plan, according to a Government spokesman, who indicated that the negotiations had not been broken off, but that Germany would require a satisfactory answer from the Spanish Government concerning the Kamerun incident, which must be satisfactorily settled.

Berlin: A stern warning against any further interference with German shipping has been sent by wireless to the commanders of Spanish warships by Rear-Admiral Carls, Commander-in-Chief of the German war vessels in the Mediterranean. Rear-Admiral Carls condemns the Kamerun incident as a crime against the right of free shipping on the open seas, and adds that he has instructed German vessels to reply with force to any unjustified forcible acts by Spanish warships.

GERMAN FLEET MOVEMENT
Berlin: The pocket battleship Admiral Graf von Spee, the cruisers Leipzig and Nuremberg and a number of torpedo-boats, commanded by Admiral Bohm, have left Kiel to relieve the other German warships in Spanish waters. Official circles declare that this movement was decided upon some time ago.

WORLD RECORD Cunningham's Feat At Stockholm

ONE-TENTH OF A SECOND CLIPPED IN 800 METRES

Stockholm, To-day.

The American athlete Glen Cunningham, of Kansas, did the 800 Metres here yesterday in 1 min. 49.7 secs. to set up a new world's record for that distance. The previous best time was 1 min. 49.8 secs., held jointly by T. Hamson (Great Britain) and Ben Eastman (America). — Reuter.

Cunningham, who was a member of the U.S. contingent at the Berlin Olympic Games, came second in the 1,500 Metres, when Jack Lovelock, New Zealand, won in 3 mins. 47.8 secs. to establish a new world's record.

It is of interest to note that in the Olympic Games the time for the 800 Metres, returned by Johnny Woodruff, also of America, who placed first, was 1 min. 53.6 secs., 3.9 secs. outside the new mark.

FIFTEEN ARABS KILLED IN DAY-LONG AFFRAY

Conflict Follows Attack On Military Patrol

Jerusalem, To-day.

Fifteen Arabs are believed to have been killed in an affray which lasted all day long between an armed Arab gang and military detachments near Hebron, in Central Palestine. The conflict started with an attack on a military patrol. Reinforcements, including aircraft, were sent to the scene of the fighting. The troops suffered no casualties.

THE PALESTINE QUESTION

Arab Wishes Should Be Met

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

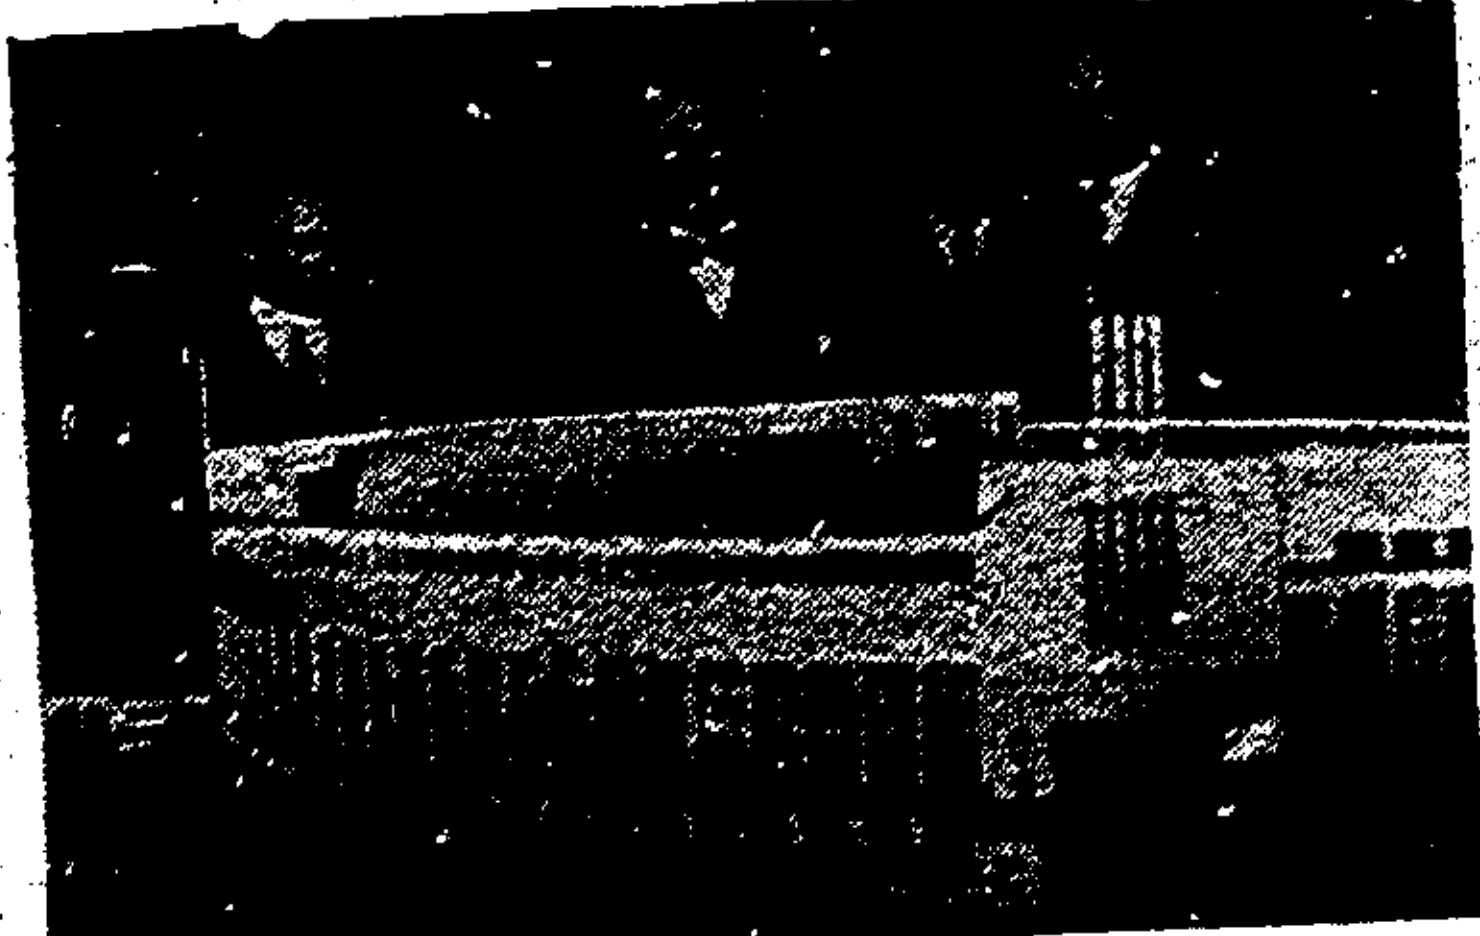

Jerusalem, To-day.

At a special audience given to the British Minister in Iraq, in the presence of the Premier and the Foreign Minister of Iraq, King Ghazi first made urgent representations to the Minister to advise the British Government regarding the Palestine question, to arrive at an early solution in favour of the Arabs.

King Ghazi pointed out that an expeditions termination of the dispute, according to the Arab wishes, was necessary in the interests of the maintenance of good relations between the Iraq Arabs and England. — Trans-Ocean Service.

K.C.C. BEAT K.B.G.C. TO CAUSE ONLY SERIOUS BOWLS UPSET

The Shanghai 50 Yards free-style swimming mark of 25 2-5 secs. which was jointly held by Noel Hammond, seen above, captain of Shanghai's 1935 Interport team, and Frank Hadley, was recently lowered by Tommy Britton, who came third in last year's Interport and who clocked 25 secs. flat.

SHANGHAI SWIMMING RECORDS LOWERED

TOMMY BRITTON & S. MATSUSHITA SHARE THE LIMELIGHT

Shanghai, August 16.
IN four out of the five championship swimming events held at the Cercle Sportif Français gala last night, existing Shanghai records were broken. Honours were divided between M. Matsushita, the Japanese swimmer who lowered the middle distance records and T. Britton, the 16-year-old American who set up new marks in the sprint events. The backstroke, the only ladies' championship event of the evening was won by Miss S. Brabner.

Tommy Britton lowered the existing Shanghai record for the 50 yards men's free style, jointly held previously by Noel Hammond and Frank Hadley at 25 2/5 seconds. Britton's time last night was 25 seconds, which considering the straight swim without a turn is very good. L. Oliveira sprang a surprise by taking second place, beating A. Gavriloff by a touch.

C.R.C. ALMOST SURE OF TITLE

U.S.R.C. Trounced By 7 Sets To 2

At Causeway Bay, the Chinese Recreation Club beat the United Services Recreation Club by 7 sets to 2 in the Mixed Doubles Lawn Tennis League. L. Goldman and Mrs. Wilson, taking both the visitors' sets.

This practically assures the Chinese Recreation Club of their second consecutive title in the series.

A feature of the match was the return of M. W. Lo and Mrs. Enid Lo-Litton, the 1928, 1930, and 1932 Colony Mixed Doubles champions, and they celebrated the occasion by taking three sets in comfortable style.

H.K.F.C. SECURE DOUBLE

(By "Skip")
THE only surprising result last Saturday was the defeat of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club by their next door neighbours, the Kowloon Cricket Club, and while admitting that there has been a decided falling off in the play of the former Club, it was not to be expected that they would lose on their own ground, to what was more or less an experimental K.C.C. team.

The result bolstered up Club de Recreio's prospects of being runners-up, although Craigengower "B" are also in the running, being only two points behind both the above teams, and having played two games less than the Kowloon Bowling Green Club and one less than the Portuguese.

The Cricketers were leading all the way against the K.B.G.C. and eventually ran out easy winners by 17 shots. Duncan being the only successful home skip. Silkstone began with a smart five against him, only for "Bob" to come back with a four on the next head, but he had to trail up to the 16th head, when he drew level with a four, and this in spite of a six at the eighth end, and a very nice count it was too. But it's an old horse for a long road and "Bob" finished up with eight in three heads to win by five shots.

ON THE BOWLING GREEN

Curious Problem Arises

JACK ON BOUNDARY STRING

(By "SKIP")
A most interesting point has been submitted to me, which, on the face of it, appears to be perfectly simple, but it is a matter of difficult settlement, as there is no proper authority for an answer being given.

The point at issue is:—The Jack has been moved to a position on one of the boundary strings, necessitating the playing of bowls into the adjoining rink, so that they may finish near the jack.

Nothing in Laws

The answer would appear to be that such a procedure is perfectly in order, but there is nothing in the laws of the game to justify the action.

This is a procedure I have frequently seen followed in the course of a game, and I suppose it will come under the heading "use and wont." The only alternative to avoid such a thing happening would be to delay playing the bowl until the adjoining rink have completed their end.

Not Favourable

Such a procedure, however, is not likely to find favour, since it would have the deterrent effect of holding up play.

The point raised is only one of many problems requiring a systematic revision of the laws of the game, in order that they may be brought into line with modern requirements.

Lawn Bowls Teams For To-morrow

FIRST DIVISION

The following are the First Division bowls teams for to-morrow:—

	K.C.C.	C.C.C. 'A'	C.C.C. 'B'	RECREIO	K.B.G.C.
G. Lee, F. Goodwin, R. G. Craig and A. Hyde-Lay (skip).	F. A. Broadbridge, H. Overy, A. Spary and A. E. Silkstone (skip).	E. Gittins, V. C. Labrum, J. M. Jack and E. C. Fincher (skip).	J. W. Leonard, H. W. Randall, F. K. Modi and W. K. Way (skip).	J. R. Soares, W. Phelps, E. Arculli and H. V. Pearce (skip).	A. J. Coelho, B. W. Whiteman, M. A. E. Sousa and W. V. Field (skip).

Spary played a great game as No. 3 to "Silky" and has improved immensely, while both Randle and his skip were doing their stuff well.

Guy's rink, which seems to have gone to pieces lately, lost again and were never in the picture against the Interport captain, A. Hyde-Lay, who had a change in his rink, Craig being No. 3 and Frank Goodwin No. 2.

Lee's Good Play

Lee laid the foundation for their useful win by a good exhibition of drawing to the jack, whilst Hyde-Lay himself was not found wanting. The home team were for the most part out-bowled and a 13-shot deficit was a fair result. The versatile Teddy Fincher was in the meantime having the better of his more famous opponent, Adam Holland, but the result was closer here, there being only nine in it.

Only four ahead at the 14th, the visiting four scored 12 in three heads, the last one a five, but Holland also scored a "nap hand" to lift his score to a higher mark.

Bright and Gittens had a good struggle as leads, but "Vic" Labrum usually had the better of Henson who has been off his game lately.

Indian's Collapse

Club de Recreio were all over the Indians at King's Park, only Dallas putting up strong enough opposition to win, and then by only a single shot against F. X. Silva. There were five fours scored in this game, the winners claiming three of them. It is not perhaps quite fair to Adal to include him in my general remarks above, in so far as he was leading Dick Alves all the way until the 16th, when a "rot" set in, and he conceded 12 shots without reply.

Interport Bowler

H. A. ALVES, the Recreio skip, who was born in Shanghai, was in his younger days an all-round athlete, playing football and cricket with success.

He played football for the Recreio in the local League, as a centre-forward in the junior division and as short-stop for the same club when it had a team in the baseball League. He still plays cricket for them and is considered one of their best all-rounders.

Alves started bowls in 1927 at the Recreio and was a member of the team which won the Second Division in 1928. He won the Recreio Singles championship in 1927 and repeated this feat last year. He has been in the semi-final rounds of the Open Singles and Rinks Championships for the last two seasons.

He was chosen as reserve for the bowls Interport last year and played in U. M. Omar's successful rink—it was the only rink to win in that series.

This year he has been chosen as one of the six to represent the Colony in the Interport against Shanghai.

RECREIO AND K.B.G.C. CLASH TO-MORROW

VITAL MATCHES IN TWO DIVISIONS

JUNIOR CHAMPIONS SHOULD RETAIN THEIR TITLE

(By "SKIP")
By reason of its bearing on the runners-up position, the match between Club de Recreio and Kowloon Bowling Green Club must be considered the most important in to-morrow's programme. Should the Portuguese team win, they will have cleared the way to the runners-up berth.

G. J. Perkins, R. Brown, H. Cam-

I do not expect Craighower "A" will let their "B" team get away with anything, and they should win quite easily. The Indians will find it hard to hold Tai-koo, and I favour the visitors to win by a small margin. The Kowloon Dock and Police game should be very close with the points remaining at Hung Hom.

The Civil Servants have to travel to Kowloon to meet the Kowloon-Cricket Club, who I think will be just about strong enough in their present winning form to pull it off by a few shots.

Vital Junior Clash
In the Second Division, I have indicated a win for all the home clubs: the chief match of which will be, as in the First Division, Club De Recreio versus Kowloon Bowling Green Club, at Austin Road. The home team only need this win, to be assured of the junior championship once again.

It will also be interesting to see if the Football Club "A" are able to avenge the defeat which their youngsters inflicted on them earlier in the season. I think they will reply, with double interest.

All-India managed to draw only one of the three Test matches against England, but the team showed quite clearly that they could rise to the occasion.

Prior to the first Test they had a poor record to show for some 15 matches, yet they gave the cream of England several very anxious moments before they went down to a 9 wickets defeat. At Old Trafford they fought back in the best traditions of the game, holding off almost certain defeat by determined batting—set to score 368 to save the innings defeat, they totalled 390 for 5 before stumps were drawn! At the Oval they were only beaten by England's fast rate of scoring on the opening day, and, forced to follow on 249 in arrears, they set England the easy task of scoring 64 to win.

Several Disappointments
There were several disappointments in the series, notable among which was the inability of Wazir Ali to get going—he had only 64 runs to his credit as the result of six completed innings—while Major C. K. Nayudu was also not seen at his best.

There is little doubt that Amar Nath, who was sent home, would have strengthened the side very considerably in all three Tests.

England had cause for satisfaction when Hammond came out of his shell at Old Trafford and the Oval after a very indifferent start to the season. His 167 at Manchester beat B. H. Valentine's record score against India in a Test—136 at Bombay in 1933—while the Gloucester star went even better with 217 at the Oval. Barnett, Worthington, Sims, Hardstaff and England's new skipper, G. O. Allen, all showed promising form in view of the Australian tour this winter.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS WINS AGAIN

Beats Former World Champion In Non-Title Clash

(St. Louis, Missouri,

August 12)
John Henry Lewis, the battling Negro from Arizona, who holds the world's light-heavyweight title, added another win to his long record of victories here to-night.

Lewis took a 10 round decision from George Nichols, of Buffalo, New York, former light-heavyweight champion of the world. The title was not at stake. Each man weighed in at 177 pounds.

Third Test (Oval)

England (471 for 8 dec. and 64 for 1) beat India (222 and 312) by 9 wickets after batting first.

Wicket Partnerships

The following were the best wicket partnerships:

1st—203—Mushtaq Ali and V. M. Merchant at Old Trafford.

2nd—134—Hammond and Fagg at Old Trafford.

3rd—127—Hammond and Worthington at Old Trafford.

4th—256—Hammond and Worthington at the Oval.

5th—86—Worthington and Hardstaff at Old Trafford.

6th—55—Leyland and Langridge at Lord's.

7th—75—C. K. Nayudu and C. Ramsawami at the Oval.

8th—138—R. W. V. Robins and Verity at Old Trafford.

9th—18—Maharajkumar of Vizianagram and C. S. Nayudu at Lord's.

10th—16—M. B. Jilani and M. Nissar at the Oval.

But before the heavy task of redemption could be attempted, there was a delay of an hour and a half. The centre court remained tented while rain fell pitilessly on a patient throng, braving behind a legacy of dampness on the surface.

Nevertheless, when Austin and Quist had reconciled their feet to a slippery floor—though Austin was to tumble several times—the play was worthy of the occasion and a splendid match resulted.

That Austin should have lost it was due to the remorseless pressure which Quist imposed on a player not as richly endowed with stamina as himself—an antagonist who, requiring less preparation for his strokes, could save time and exertion.

Quist's Better Service
Added to which Quist had a superior service and a cleaner smash. He was also the finer general in that he increased his speed and the sharpness of his attack at the critical stages in the critical sets.

He ran much less than Austin because he was more often in control of the rally.

But the young Australian did not show his best hand immediately. Austin was 3-0 before a long game, which England was three times within a stroke of capturing, revealed the menace that was to come.

PERRY TROUNCES CRAWFORD

DECIDING MATCH AFTER QUIST LEVELS SCORES

AUSTRALIA FAIL IN HUGE TASK

(By A. Wallis Myers)

London, July 29.

GREAT BRITAIN yesterday won the Davis Cup for the fourth successive year by defeating Australia at Wimbledon by three matches to two in the challenge round. Last year and in 1934 the holders were undefeated in singles. They lost this record yesterday when Quist, the Australian champion, beat Austin by three sets to one, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

But the fateful fifth match, when both countries were level, was gallantly carried by Perry in a never-ceasing series of attacking blows. The champion beat Crawford 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. This is Great Britain's ninth victory in the challenge round. She has won once in America, once in Australia and once in France; three times at the Old Wimbledon and three times at the New.

Of the 31 Challenge Rounds since the Cup was founded in 1900 I have witnessed 24, and that is considerably more than any other observer. The contest which concluded yesterday has been eclipsed both in excitement and skill, but it emphasised once more the virtue of the balanced team.

Donald Budge, of America, and Gottfried von Cramm, of Germany, were, like Perry and Austin, unbeaten in Davis Cup singles this year. Lacking the support of a great second string, they could not conduct their countries even as far as the Challenge Round, though each made a valiant contribution.

Australia's Huge Task
Australia had to win both singles matches yesterday to lift the Cup—a feat of revival that even the many Australians present in the vast crowd could only visualise as a dream.

But before the heavy task of redemption could be attempted, there was a delay of an hour and a half. The centre court remained tented while rain fell pitilessly on a patient throng, braving behind a legacy of dampness on the surface.

Nevertheless, when Austin and Quist had reconciled their feet to a slippery floor—though Austin was to tumble several times—the play was worthy of the occasion and a splendid match resulted.

Results were:—
220 Yards Free Style:—
1. Pte. Wright (R.A.M.C.), 2. Sig. Bonham (R.C.S.).

Inter-Unit Diving Championship:—
1. R.A.M.C. 117½ points, 2. R.A.S.C. 111½ points.

50 Yards Free Style:—
1. Pte. Wright (R.A.M.C.), 2. Pte. Lawler (R.A.O.C.).

Ladies' 25 Yards Free Style:—
1. Mrs. Burke, 2. Miss Fallowfield.

100 Yards Breast-Stroke:—

Great Messages

Mankind may be divided, as was Gaul by Julius Caesar, into three parts: That which believes in keeping a good thing to itself, that which is willing to part at a price, and lastly, the altruists who insist on telling the world. The last class is naturally the rarest, but its apostles are remembered longest and most kindly by posterity. We brought nothing into the world, neither may we carry anything out, but quite a number of us during our brief sojourn pick up some bright idea which, like the sand-grain in the oyster's shell, so frets us that it develops into a lustrious growth which must be shown to an admiring public. Should the idea be a commercial proposition, our blister may prove a pearl of great price. But in such cases it is nowadays necessary to employ a professional herald to proclaim the great news. Town hoardings and country beauty-spots sparkle with a thousand messages appealing to the hungry, thirsty, sick, bored and unclothed. Get-rich-quick schemes are tidings of considerable suspicion rather than great joy, being things that an honest schemer prefers to keep to himself. But the physically perfect and mentally efficient may experience a genuine and generous urge to help the weak and afflicted into better ways of living. Harbingers of health and education are worthy of their modest hire, since human nature puts as little faith in free treatment as in tasteless medicine.

But most of the great world-shaking discoveries have been given to humanity by scientists and inventors who were far more concerned with inducing people to appreciate their messages than to pay for them. The early philosophers, physicians and reformers were thankful for an attentive audience and no half bricks. Founders of religions and up-setters of established social orders were so consumed by their own zeal that discretion often went by the board, and they frequently were themselves burnt by an unsympathetic populace. We, with our modern broad outlook and boasted freedom from bigotry, find it hard to credit the seemingly petty details of ritual for which a man would cheerfully endure the rack and thumb-screws. "Play the man, master Ridley!" cried Bishop Latimer as the flames licked around them. "This day we shall light such a candle." Small wonder fiery metaphors were so often employed by these men of burning faith. "Thy Word is a consuming fire," sang the prophet, and we still hand on the torch of learning and science and art. Even the early inventors, impoverished by pioneer experiments, could sometimes give the world their great truths only by stoking their furnaces with the household furniture. But the true evangelists have usually succeeded, even in the face of heart-breaking handicaps, in getting their messages across. It seems incredible that a missionary can settle on a South Sea island and impose Christian ethics upon savage tribes who collect heads as we do postage stamps, find human flesh definitely more wholesome than butcher's meat, and already possess a fine, ferocious set of tribal gods, who have suited their purposes admirably for centuries. Yet this has been done again and again with greater success than meets the Ng Fat, 29, unemployed, a former servant of Mrs. Hall, of Luna Buildings, Kimberley Road, was brought before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday charged with theft of $240. It was stated that on September 1, 1935, Mrs. Hall reported to the police the loss of this amount of money. It was later discovered that defendant stole the money from a chest of drawers in Mrs. Hall's bed-room, and went to Shum Chun where he lost it all in gambling. Returning to the Colony four days ago, defendant was traced by police agents and arrested. Sergeant Haynes conducted the prosecution. His Worship sentenced defendant to two months imprisonment.

purely mercenary efforts of skirt- and trouser-merchants to induce the head- and air-clothed barbarians to embrace the gospel of garments.

It is, of course, not always easy to differentiate between a great truth and a great myth. No doubt a medieval theologian would have thought himself justified in going to the stake to support his sincere conviction that 25 angels could stand on the point of a needle, instead of the 24 or 26 allowed by orthodox wranglers. What was that great news that had to be brought from Ghent to Aix with so much gasping and galloping? Mr. Browning is said to have confessed that so far as he was aware, there was none. Many vital messages are unfortunately somewhat unintelligible to the masses. Einstein's theories have played the very devil with our cherished ideas of straight lines and decent infinity. Happily the full gravity of his dictum that "all space is bent" is believed to be only fathomable to five other kindred scientists. Even the sanest and most sagacious may sometimes err in their estimate of the epoch-making value of a truth. Oliver Wendell Holmes tells of a learned professor who conceived a magnificent thought whenever he was in the early stage of chloroform. He finally resolved by one bold sally to lay hold of it and solve the riddle of the universe. Having therefore composed himself in an easy chair with writing materials at hand, he inhaled chloroform. As soon as he felt the great thought evolving in his mind, he roused himself for an instant, seized his pen, wrote desperately and fell back unconscious. On coming to he read, in sprawling but legible characters, this great secret: "A strong smell of turpentine pervades the whole."

MISS BROWN AT A COCKTAIL PARTY

WHERE EVERYTHING IS "SUCH FUN"

MANNERS AND MODES OF THE NEW YOUNG MAYFAIR

(By Angela Milne)

MISS BROWN at half-past five may have a shiny nose, and a piece of hair hanging over her eye, and a smudge of typewriter-ink on her arm, and a whole heap of letters to be corrected just because Mr. Richardson is in a bad temper and knows she wants to get away in time.

But Miss Brown at six, cool and powdered and beautiful, leans negligently against an off-white brocade curtain with an olive in one hand and an olive in the other. Through her eyelashes, (which have somehow grown half an inch) and her eye-veil, Miss Brown can see, leaning against the other curtain, a marvellous young man with long dark hair and a blue shirt. He is asking her how she manages to look so cool, and how she has been amusing herself all day, and what she thinks of the Russian ballet. Perhaps his shirt is green, or even yellow.

So Miss Brown's thoughts run as she jolts along in the bus from her office to the cocktail party. At South Kensington she gets off the bus. Joan's flat is somewhere near here, or so it said on the back of the invitation card. "Somewhere near South Ken, but it's sort of part of a mews, and No. 7 is next to 16, though I can't think why, but it's quite easy if you ask."

Miss Brown asks an old woman, and a man selling papers, and a policeman, and a little boy on roller-skates; and at last she finds herself, some 20 minutes later, outside a newly-painted black door with a row of bells down the side. There is a card in Joan's writing pinned on the door: "Walk Right Up."

Before Miss Brown walks right up she powders her nose again, because she is feeling so frightfully hot and untidy. There is a buzz of conversation coming from upstairs. It grows louder as Miss Brown climbs the stairs, and it breaks into a sudden clatter of talk as Joan opens the door of the flat and cries, "Hullo, my dear!" She is holding a plate of sausages on sticks, and she tells Miss Brown to take one, because they are marvellous, and to go right in; and then she looks over Miss Brown's shoulder and screams "Hullo, my dear!" at someone else on the stairs.

Miss Brown moves into the room, or, rather, the room seems to rush at her in a wave; the rattle of glasses and voices, the haze and smell of cigarette smoke, a sudden glare from the gramophone in the corner, a burst of laughter from another corner.

Crowded Everywhere

Miss Brown stands by the door and looks round. It is very dark, because people are crowded against the window. They are crowded everywhere. There are two people trying to get past her. Miss Brown edges round the door and nearly bumps into a tall young man. He is carrying two glasses. He smiles distantly and passes on, his eyes fixed on the glasses. Miss Brown notices, with a shock of surprise, that he is wearing a blue shirt and that his hair is definitely long, even if it isn't exactly dark. He looks, frightfully clever. He hands one of the glasses to a girl.

"Yes," Miss Brown hears him say, "I did the 271 miles in just over seven. Seven and three minutes, to be precise. Now, when you..." But that is all that Miss Brown hears.

Miss Brown wonders what to do with the stick of the sausage. She puts it in her hand-bag. She takes her gloves off, and puts them on again, just for something to do. And now Joan comes back, with two bottles and a red-faced young man in horn-rimmed spectacles. "Mary," she shouts to Miss Brown, "come and talk to Hugo while I make some more drinks."

"Frightfully Hot" Hugo and Miss Brown stand and look at each other for

50 Foot Ship Through 44 Foot Canal

In order to meet the tremendous demand on American shipping during the World War, it was decided to put many Great Lakes steamers into the Atlantic service, but some of the Lakes ships seemed permanently cut off from the ocean, because they were too long or too wide to pass through the Welland Canal. Many ships that were too long for the canal locks were cut in half and floated through.

The freighter Charles R. Van Hise presented a double problem to the Shipping Board engineers. She was too long to get between the canal locks, and her beam of 50 feet was 6 feet too wide for the 44 foot canal. However, her hull was less than 44 feet deep, so the vessel was cut in two, each half rolled on its side, and it went through the canal without trouble.

Three cases of enteric fever were reported to the local Health authorities during the 24 hours ended on Wednesday.

perhaps five seconds, and then Miss Brown realises that they will have to talk about the weather. "It's frightfully hot, isn't it?" she asks.

"Yes, isn't it?" says Hugo. "Frightfully!"

"Do you like it hot or cold?" asks Miss Brown.

"Well, I like it fairly hot," says Hugo. "But not hot as this. Not frightfully hot."

"Nor do I," says Miss Brown. "Except when you're in the country, of course. Then I like it really frightfully hot, don't you?"

They are getting on rather well. Hugo brings out his cigarette case. "Thank you," says Miss Brown, taking a cigarette. Someone holds out a plate. She takes another sausage on a stick.

Joan comes up with a tray. "A dry Martini or a sweet?" she asks.

"Dry, please," says Miss Brown, because she knows you ought to like dry Martinis better than sweet.

"And have an olive," says Joan. Miss Brown takes one; another stick.

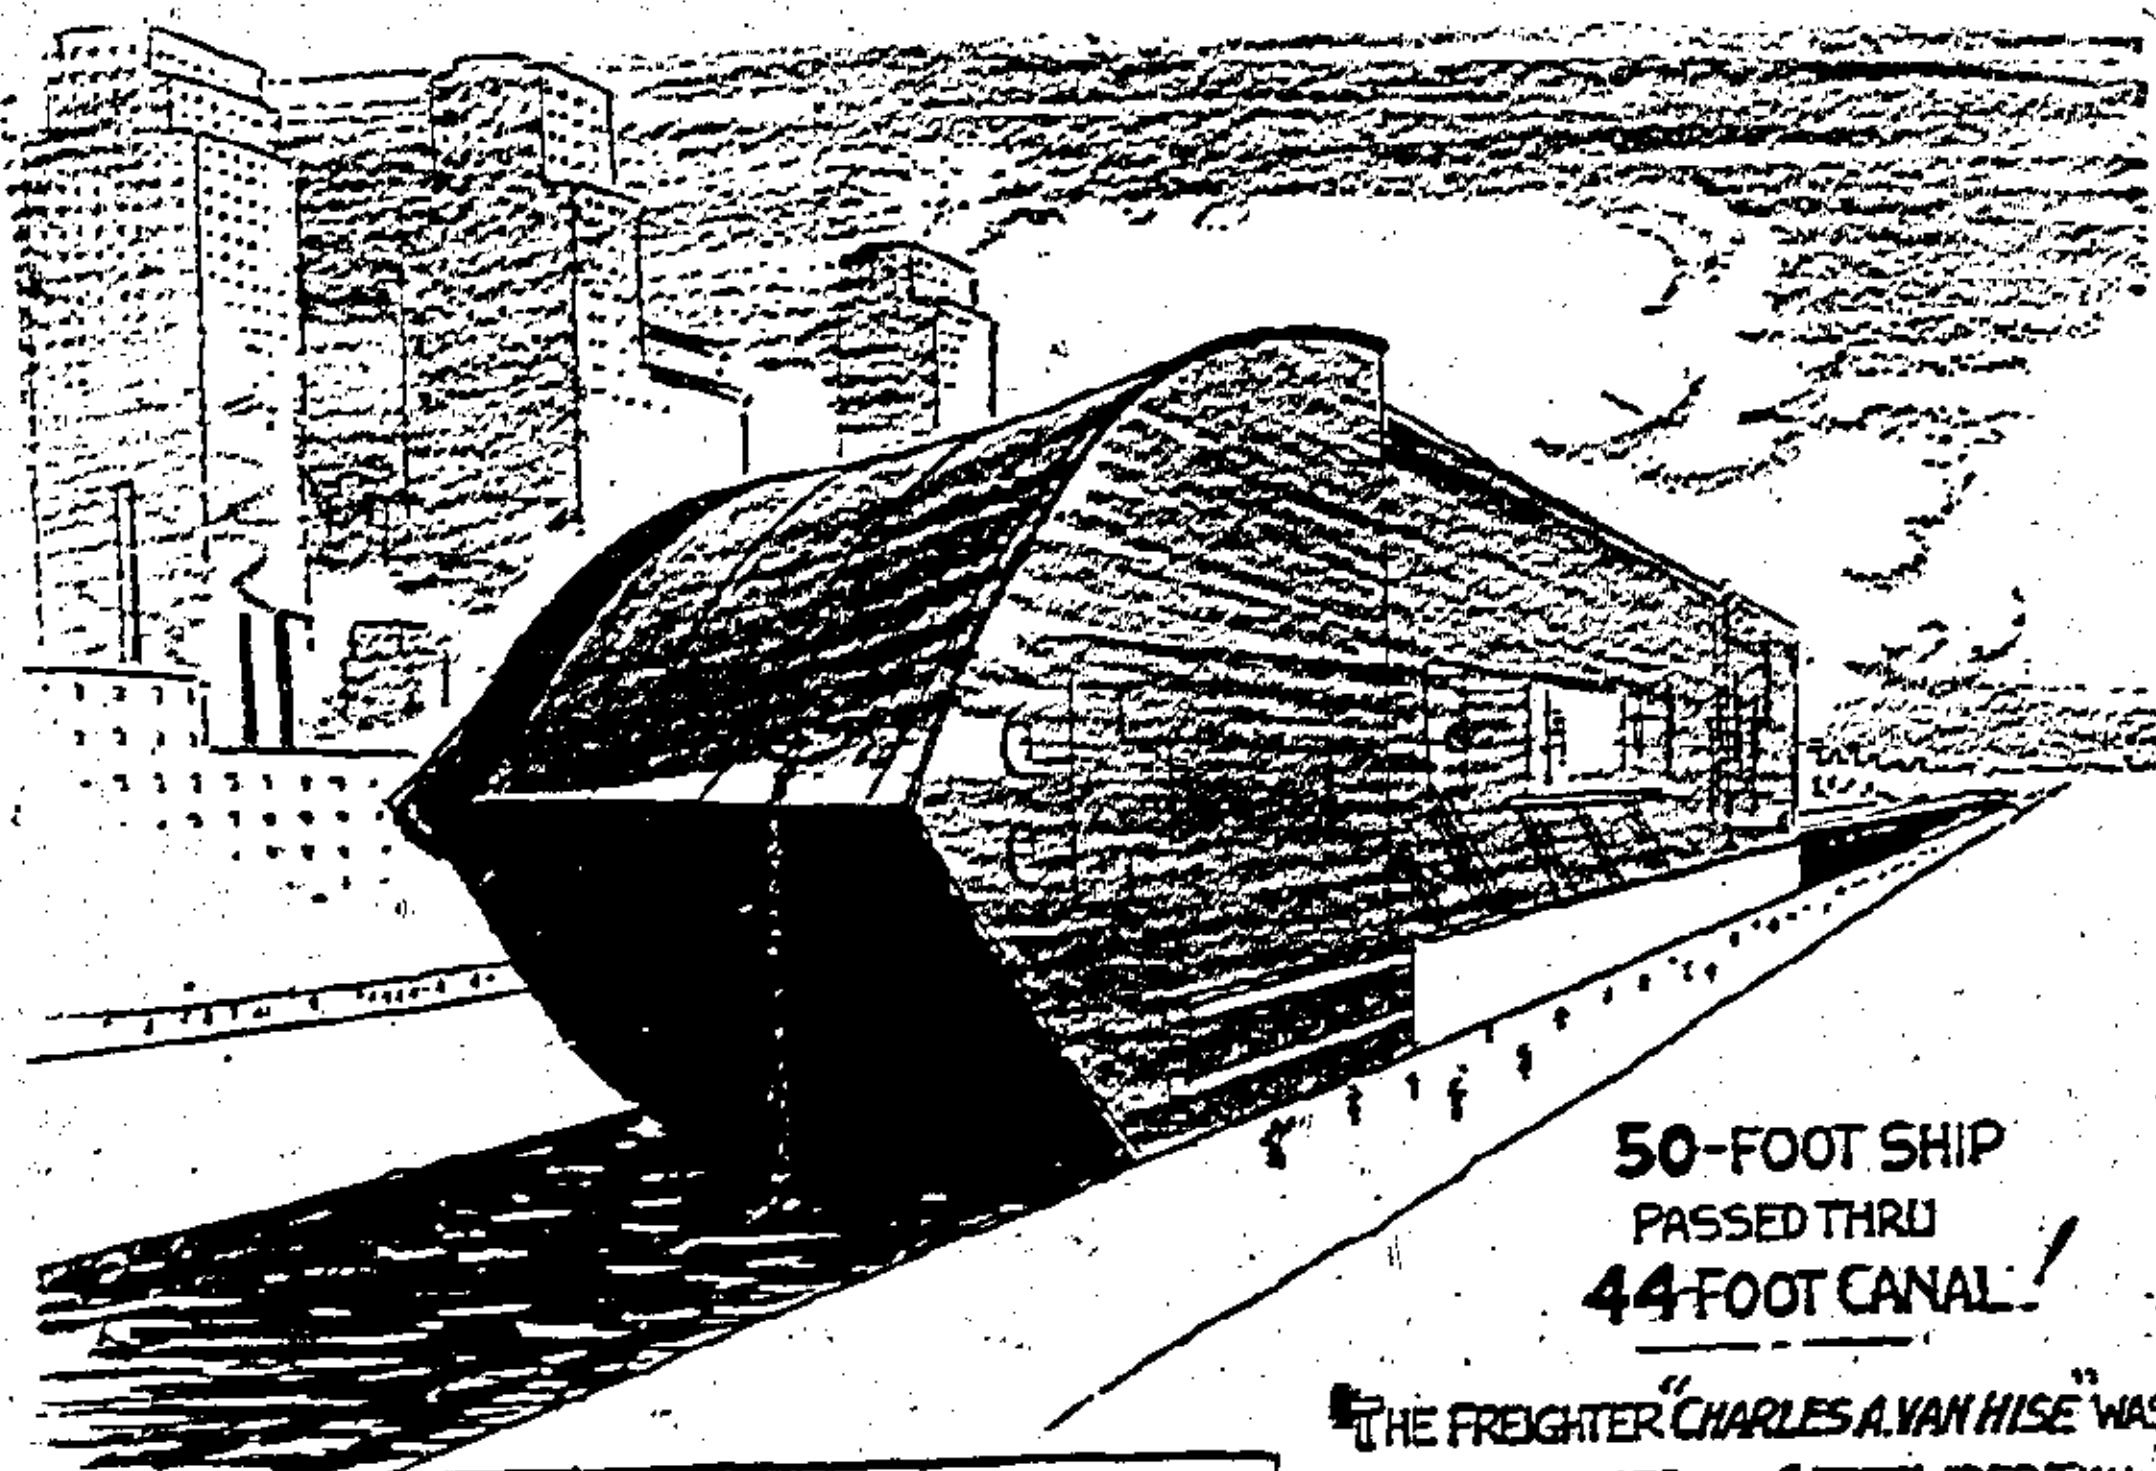

"Hugo," says Joan, "the badger's here."

"The Badger?" says Hugo. "The Badger," says Joan. "Over there."

"So it is," says Hugo, with delight. "The old Badger." He moves away.

the action of the Nationalist cruisers Almirante Cervera and Espana in bombarding San Sebastian on Wednesday. The paper adds that the Ambassador was accompanied by his wife and a party of French and British journalists, who unreservedly shared the Ambassador's view of the shelling of the town.

The Ambassador made a personal donation of 500 pesetas to the fund for the victims of the bombardment, and the Governor assured him of the "deep gratitude of all residents of San Sebastian" as well as "the affection and sympathy which our people, in their struggle for defence of their liberty, feel towards the great French nation."

A French journalist who was also present adds that a Major of the French Air-Ministry was also among the party.

BATTLE OF IRUN
Hendaye: The battle at Irun became more and more serious yesterday. Heavy artillery fire opened the offensive of the Nationalists. Radio messages from Coruna state that 9,000 men are waiting for the signal to attack.

San Sebastian is completely cut off to the west. An air attack by the Nationalists is awaited, as they have a fleet of seven modern bombing planes in this section. Numerous vacationists on vantage points of the front are watching the progress of the battle through binoculars.

All hotels in San Sebastian are overcrowded. Funds are being everywhere gathered for the homeless Spanish women and children. The Organ Frente Popular in San Sebastian reports that the troops there are receiving reinforcements from Bilbao, mostly miners. The organ goes on to say that a Major and four Captains of the Nationalists have been executed.

Palma de Majorca Radio reports that three Government ships tried to land soldiers, but failed, over 1,000 being killed in the battle. The ships fled in the direction of Barcelona.

NAVAL PERAL OFFENSIVE
Madrid: The editor-in-chief of the semi-official Moscow organ Pravda arrived here yesterday and paid an immediate visit to the Premier, Senor Giral. Senor Giral expressed gratitude over the numerous indications of friendly relations between Russia and Spain.

Before going to Madrid, the editor of the Pravda, M. Koldov, had visited Barcelona as well as the front line between Saragossa and Huesca.

An official report of the War Ministry states that a major offensive took place near the Naval Peral on Wednesday, where, on that day, both sides used aeroplanes and heavy artillery. The Nationalists, according to this report, were finally driven back by heavy machine-gun fire.

EVERYTHING IN ORDER
Berlin: It has been officially announced that the German steamer Kamerun, which was boarded outside the three-mile limit off the Spanish coast by Bolshevik freebooters and searched, was not carrying any war materials and her papers were in order.

The German Vice-Consul in San Sebastian announced that he is leaving the city with the last 25 German citizens, since to stay is now equivalent to continuously risking one's life.

GERMAN WARNING
Berlin: The commander of the German warships now in Spanish waters yesterday sent the following telegram to the commander of

CAR DRIVER
FINEDCareless Driving In Queen's Road

Geo. Hill was this morning fined $30 by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, when he pleaded guilty to driving car No. 2593 without due care and caution in Queen's Road Central on August 9.

Traffic-Sergeant Bethel said that about 2:30 a.m. on August 9, defendant was driving westwards and when near the Naval Yard, a car came in the opposite direction with its headlights dipped. The road was wet and defendant may have been dazzled by the reflection. About 50 yards past the Naval Yard, the Hong Kong Telephone Co. had dug up the road to repair some cables, but there was sufficient room for the car to pass.

Defendant when passing this opening knocked down a sign-board on the road and it hit two coolies who were working in the trench. They had to be taken to hospital and remained there two days. Defendant had compensated them and had made good the other damage.

The Spanish Loyalist Navy:
"After the breach of law at Seville by the Cruiser Almirante Valdez had only just been settled, the cruiser Libertad fired on the steamer Kamerun outside Spanish territorial waters on the high sea, compelling her to heave to and thereupon searching her with armed soldiers."

"This action against a German steamer is an infringement of the right of free navigation on the high seas. I do not intend to tolerate such acts of force. I have instructed my naval forces to meet any unjustified act of force on the part of your ships with force."—Trans-Ocean Service.

KAMERUN INCIDENT
Rome: The Italian press deals at length with the Kamerun incident off the Spanish coast. The international significance of this occurrence is pointed out, the attitude of the German press being echoed.

The Tribuna also declares that the demand of the Reich Government for the return of the aeroplane held in Madrid would be a test of Madrid's desire to preserve goodwill. "It appears however," the paper goes on, "that the Madrid Government has little interest in the conclusion of the international non-intervention agreement and, instead of attempting to quench the fire of agitation on the peninsula, the policy of Madrid in San Sebastian tends to fan the flames."

M. Jonhau's statement in the name of the French Trade Unions, that the French workers cannot remain neutral and intend to request the Government to raise the embargo on war materials, is also commented on at length.

VERY UNFORTUNATE
Paris: The Kamerun incident is regarded in French circles as very unfortunate, especially for the fact that it will tend to retard the French measures to gain the agreement of the Powers to non-intervention.

According to an announcement of the Agency Radio, there exists no doubt in French circles that the Spanish warship committed a breach of international law, and it is understandable that the incident aroused indignation in Germany and called forth strong protests in Madrid.

Then Quist ached himself to 1-3, and one felt he had got the measurements of the court attuned to his eye.

Six Games In A Row
He was to take the next six games in sequence—virtually a love set. Three of them were to love; the efficiency of the attack was splendid.

There were long rallies, and Austin was driving well, especially on the backhand, but the firmer hand and quicker reflex were Quist's.

This cool reprisal, by the scientifically sound methods by which it was achieved, the co-ordination of strokes having a smooth completeness, suggested that Quist held the key to victory if the lapses to which he is prone did not check his progress.

Confidence Shaken
But these did not come until his confidence was shaken by the incursion of the foot fault judge in the fourth game.

He seemed sure of a 3-1 lead when, pressing to secure it, he swung his right foot over the line before the impact of the ball on the racket.

The penalty seemed to end a chapter, and when another was opened, Quist began to make errors.

He lost his service again in the sixth game, a double fault indicating his loss of concentration.

Austin Attacks
Austin's gain of the set followed in the ninth game. He was pressing Quist profitably on his backhand line and coming up behind his best thrusts to bring off a choice volley.

Quist's redemption of the third set from 3-5 was the turning-point of the match; it was a brilliant tactical coup.

In the ninth game he swung over to Austin's forehand, hitherto neglected, with a stream of beautifully-measured drives. Every move was conducted without a sign of stress or strain.

Then he broke through Austin's service to love and squared the set. The eleventh game was long and splendidly fought, and Austin might have carried it—for he braced with great spirit—had a bad bounce not given his opponent the vital game point.

Clever Tactics
Quist made no mistake in the twelfth game; he took it to love, forcing Austin to shorten his length by the depth of his own, and lobbing very craftily if Austin forced him out on his backhand line.

There was a quarter-of-an-hour of drizzle and the light on resumption was very poor. Perhaps this was why Quist gave a hostage to fortune by double-faulting in the first game of the fourth set. He seemed strangely shy of taking the offensive.

But his supreme steadiness in all departments did not require the complement of daring; he was forcing errors from Austin by moving him remorselessly from corner to corner.

Quist Leads 4-1
A 4-1 lead gave him a lien on the match. He had now two service games on which to go out; he required only one.

Austin's good volleying won the sixth and eighth games from 30; neither of Quist's two games was deuced.

He was a well-deserved victor in the ninth game for 15, having been on court one hour and 40 minutes. The light had improved for the final act, but it could never be an ideal atmosphere for the crucial tie.

I wonder that Perry and Austin played as well; they provided many rallies of brilliant tennis.

Crawford On Defensive
That all three sets went to the champion, and almost with identical scores, was due to the fact that Crawford, with all his fluent driving and gallant perseverance, was almost all the time on the defence against a rampant and ruthless attack.

Crawford produced, as he often

TYPHUS EPIDEMIC POSSIBLE
Paris: Great anxiety exists in San Sebastian, according to reports of the Agency Radio, over the danger of a typhus epidemic breaking out, due to the water scarcity. The sources of the city's water supply are in the hands of the insurgents, and for several days only rain and spring water has been available for drinking.—Trans-Ocean Service.

does, the service aces and occasionally the sweeping circumventing drive, but his mobility was so much less than Perry's that the fight was always with swifter mover.

It is a tribute to Crawford that he captured eight games against such a whirlwind, and none of them was taken without really fine play—for Perry was giving nothing away.

In the third set Crawford made a brave effort to break through Perry's service and draw level at 4-4, but though he got to vantage, he could not gather the game point. The champion's pace was too hot, his attack on the Australian's backhand too insistent.

Gallant Effort
Then, after Perry was on the brink of victory, having piled up a lead of 5-love in the third set, Crawford made another gallant effort, winning three games, as darkness was coming.

But neither his legs nor his arms were quite strong enough for a duel against a champion who never tired and was always in the hunt.

Princess Marie Louise presented the cup to the British captain, Mr. Roper Barrett. By that time it was almost dark.

AUSTIN ROAD CLUB
DETERIORATING

C. G. Silva returned to winning form against Minu and he was well supported by a new Interceptor in F. V. V. Ribeiro, whose selection I advocated some time ago.

Taikoo put up a strong fight at the Valley when opposed to the Police, one rink losing by one shot, and another by only two. The visitors, as a matter of fact, led for more than half the game, but the home team, especially Logan's rink, who had the biggest win, finished strongly to save the points. It was Mair and Polson who were featured in the "needle" match and the result was a true reflection of the high standard of play of both rinks. The Hollands-Wallace duel (and what opposite types of men) was not decided until the last head, when the former secured his winning two.

Made No Mistake
The junior champions, the K.B.G.C., made no mistake in their match against the K.C.C. In scoring a win by 57 shots they just missed equalling Club de Recreio's aggregate record of 93, falling one short.

Thompson had the biggest win, getting home against "Polly" Jack by 25 shots, thanks to a tremendous burst at the finish, when he scored a six, a four and a three in succession. Sheriff had a similar burst with a couple of fours, in his game against Hirst, who played a good game in spite of the adverse result. He had poor support most of the time. Rogers, as lead to Sheriff, played his best game of the season, whilst Logan was also good in this rink.

The Yachtsmen returned to form with a smart win against the Police. Robertson was skipping again and he was "custodian of the bacon," winning by 15 shots to carry the other two rinks to victory. He was in opposition to Riddell, for whom Gough played well, while he had good assistance from Morrison his No. 3. Stevenson went down by eight shots to the visitors' strongest skip, A. E. Carey, against whom he was leading for most of the game, while Marks scored singles on the last two heads to win against Maughan.

Soccer's Double Win
The Football Club scored a double win on Saturday, the "A" team trouncing the Electricians by 37 shots. They were comfortably up on each rink. Jack Russell had the biggest victory with a 15-shot margin over Paul, for whom Sorby again played well, while Jack Rogers was next in order of merit, with C. B. Robertson bringing up the rear with a 10-shot win against Deacon.

Rowell, who played such a good game as No. 3 in the "B" team the previous week, was promoted as No. 2 to Robertson and fully justified his selection.

The Footballers "B" team found it just as hard to win as the "A" had found it easy. E. J. Edwards was down by a 20-shot margin to "Timber" Wood, but the other two rinks each got home by 11 shots to retain the points against their Civil Service visitors.

CONGRATULATIONS to every man and woman whose teeth are still perfect whose hair is still healthy whose nerves are still steady whose vitality is still buoyant

They've escaped the most common complaint of civilized people—a shortage of minerals in the body. Teeth were meant to last a lifetime, hair to retain its colour and luxuriance, and the heart and nervous system should give carefree service for three-score years and ten.

But teeth, hair, nerves and muscles depend for well-being on the millions of cells of which the body is made up. These cells must have plenty of minerals to keep them strong; any shortage weakens them and you soon feel the effect in every organ of your body. Kalzana supplies the body with all the minerals it requires, in an easily absorbed form. Therefore, the effects of Kalzana are quickly felt in increased vitality, better appetite, soothed nerves. Soon the whole system is toned up. The teeth regain strength and hardness and decay is arrested. Radiant health returns—to stay. Start taking Kalzana without delay—give it to your children too.

Full-Length All-Colour Film "Trail Of The Lonesome Pine"

Headed By Large, Well Chosen Cast

(By ESTHER)

ACCORDING to reports, all film combining murder, mystery, music and romance, thrills and comedy, and it stars Mary Ellis, and also Alexander Korda in England, are definitely launching on a big programme of the Metropolitan Opera voice! Mary Ellis gives a fine performance in the companies feel that colour is the thing; but I can't agree with them—the process is still far from perfect. Although one gets a pleasing sequence here and there, the general effect is blurred and misses the clarity and all the fine possibilities there are in black and white photography. We have already seen a number of films with colour sequences, but "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," coming to the Queen's and Alhambra this week-end, is an innovation in that the greater part of the picture is "shot" outdoors in the wild Cumberland Mountain region.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is a warm and sympathetic presentation of John Fox Jr.'s story, with Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda heading a large and well-chosen cast. It tells of the primitive passions and emotions of the mountain folk and their distrust for modern civilization. Deadly feuds rage among these mountain families, chief among whom are the Tollivers and the Fallins, whose delight is to lie in ambush and kill each other. Then comes an engineer from the outside world (Fred MacMurray), who wants to build a railway through the Tolliver and Fanlin land and finds himself up against bitter enmity.

Running through the picture is a romance between MacMurray and Sylvia Sidney, the passionate daughter of the hills. Little "Spunky" McFarland, as Buddie, youngest of the Tolliver clan, plays an important part and does it well! Altogether it is good entertainment and something you won't want to miss.

"Fatal Lady"

"Fatal Lady" comes to the Queen's later in the week. It is a worthy of her love. All ends well—and you go home happy.

Frank Buck Again

But the one you'll really want to see at the King's is "Fang and Claw," Frank Buck's new film of the jungle of the Malay Peninsula and Northern India. It is a film that will appeal to men, women and children alike with its many hair-breadth escapes and the exciting capture of various animals.

Frank Buck shows you just how he outwits and captures birds, mammals and reptiles, from the gorgeously beautiful Birds of Paradise to the great Bengal tigers. The animal collector catches a 25-foot python, barehanded, and an enormous crocodile with no other implements than some long poles. In one of the many exciting episodes he shoots a tiger that is attacking a baby rhinoceros—and just in the nick of time it is, too! Other tensely exciting captures include that of the largest man-eating tiger ever seen in that part of the Malay Peninsula—and Buck brings it back alive. You must see "Fang and Claw" and hear Frank Buck tell you all about the danger and lure of the jungles—where fang and claw hold sway.

Fast Moving Entertainment

For comedy, stark drama, thrills and melodramatic action, go to the Alhambra next week and see "Absolute Quiet." The picture concerns the difficulties of a New York financier who is sent to his Montana ranch, under his doctor's orders, for "absolute quiet." His moments of peace are short-lived, will be shown.

An unwilling tenant, this 30-foot python is forced into its new home by Frank Buck, in a scene from "Fang and Claw," which will be shown at the King's Theatre on Sunday next.

Sylvia Sidney and Frank MacMurray are in the Paramount production, "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," now being shown at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres.

SAFETY GLASS WINDSCREENS

New Order In Force From Jan. 1

London, To-day.

On January 1 next regulations issued by the Ministry of Transport make compulsory safety glass windcreens on motor vehicles. All vehicles manufactured after 1931 are fitted with windcreens of the safety type, but it is estimated that some 600,000 private and 200,000 commercial vehicles at present on the road have ordinary glass screens and that probably 500,000 of these will be continued on the road by their owners, who will have to have new windcreens fitted before the end of the year.—British Wireless Service.

LOITERING WITH INTENT

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday Chung Loi, aged 20, a vegetable gardener, was charged before Mr. Q.A.A. Macfayden with loitering at 2.45 a.m. on August 19 outside No. 92 Tai Po Road. Defendant denied the offence.

Inspector W. R. Chester-Woods stated that an Indian constable saw defendant in Tai Po Road near Peiho Street outside house No. 92. The house was one standing by itself and was surrounded by a big wall. Dogs were barking and the Indian saw defendant with both his hands on the wall, as if he were just about to climb it or get down. When defendant saw the constable, he ran away and was caught in Shekpinet Street. Defendant said he had no home, as his hut at Cheung Sha Wan had been blown away by the typhoon. He wandered about Tai Po Road, and borrowed a few cigarettes from passers-by. He then lay down outside the pavement by No. 92 and was accused by the Indian constable.

Defendant's record showed that he had served three months for receiving last year and he was sentenced to three weeks' hard labour.

After having been blocked since the typhoon on Monday, the Castle Peak Road is again open to traffic, the blockage having been cleared away at different points. It is notified, however, that caution is still necessary when proceeding between the 12th and 14th mile, and at the 18th mile, where no passing of two vehicles is yet possible, and men are stationed to give the right of way. The road round Hong Kong still had signs of the storm up to yesterday, consisting of piled up debris by the wayside at various points.

BRIDGE NOTES

Tribute To An Expert

By Ely Culbertson

The late Louis H. Watson was one of the game's greatest players and analysts. The keynote of his game was soundness. His brilliance lay in his steadiness and dependability rather than in sensational bids or plays that might startle a none too discerning gallery. His mistakes were few and far between, and he possessed, perhaps more than any other individual, a rare ability to adapt his game to that of difficult partners. He believed that all good players followed the same basic ideas, that where they differed was in individual idiosyncracies. His genius was the accuracy of his diagnosis of these idiosyncracies, plus infinite capacity for clear reasoning and logical play.

The hand shown below is an excellent example of the vision he brought to bear on crucial situations. Only the finest players will appreciate the brilliance of the simple, unobtrusive play he made to defeat a vulnerable slam contract.

The bidding:
West North East South
1D Pass 2H Pass
2NT Pass 3C Pass
3NT Pass 4NT Pass
6NT [final bid]

I am merely reporting the bidding as it actually took place, not endorsing its soundness. To my mind, East was much too optimistic in his bid of four no trump, following his previous strong bidding. Still, against any one except a player of the first rank in the South seat it is certain that the slam would have succeeded.

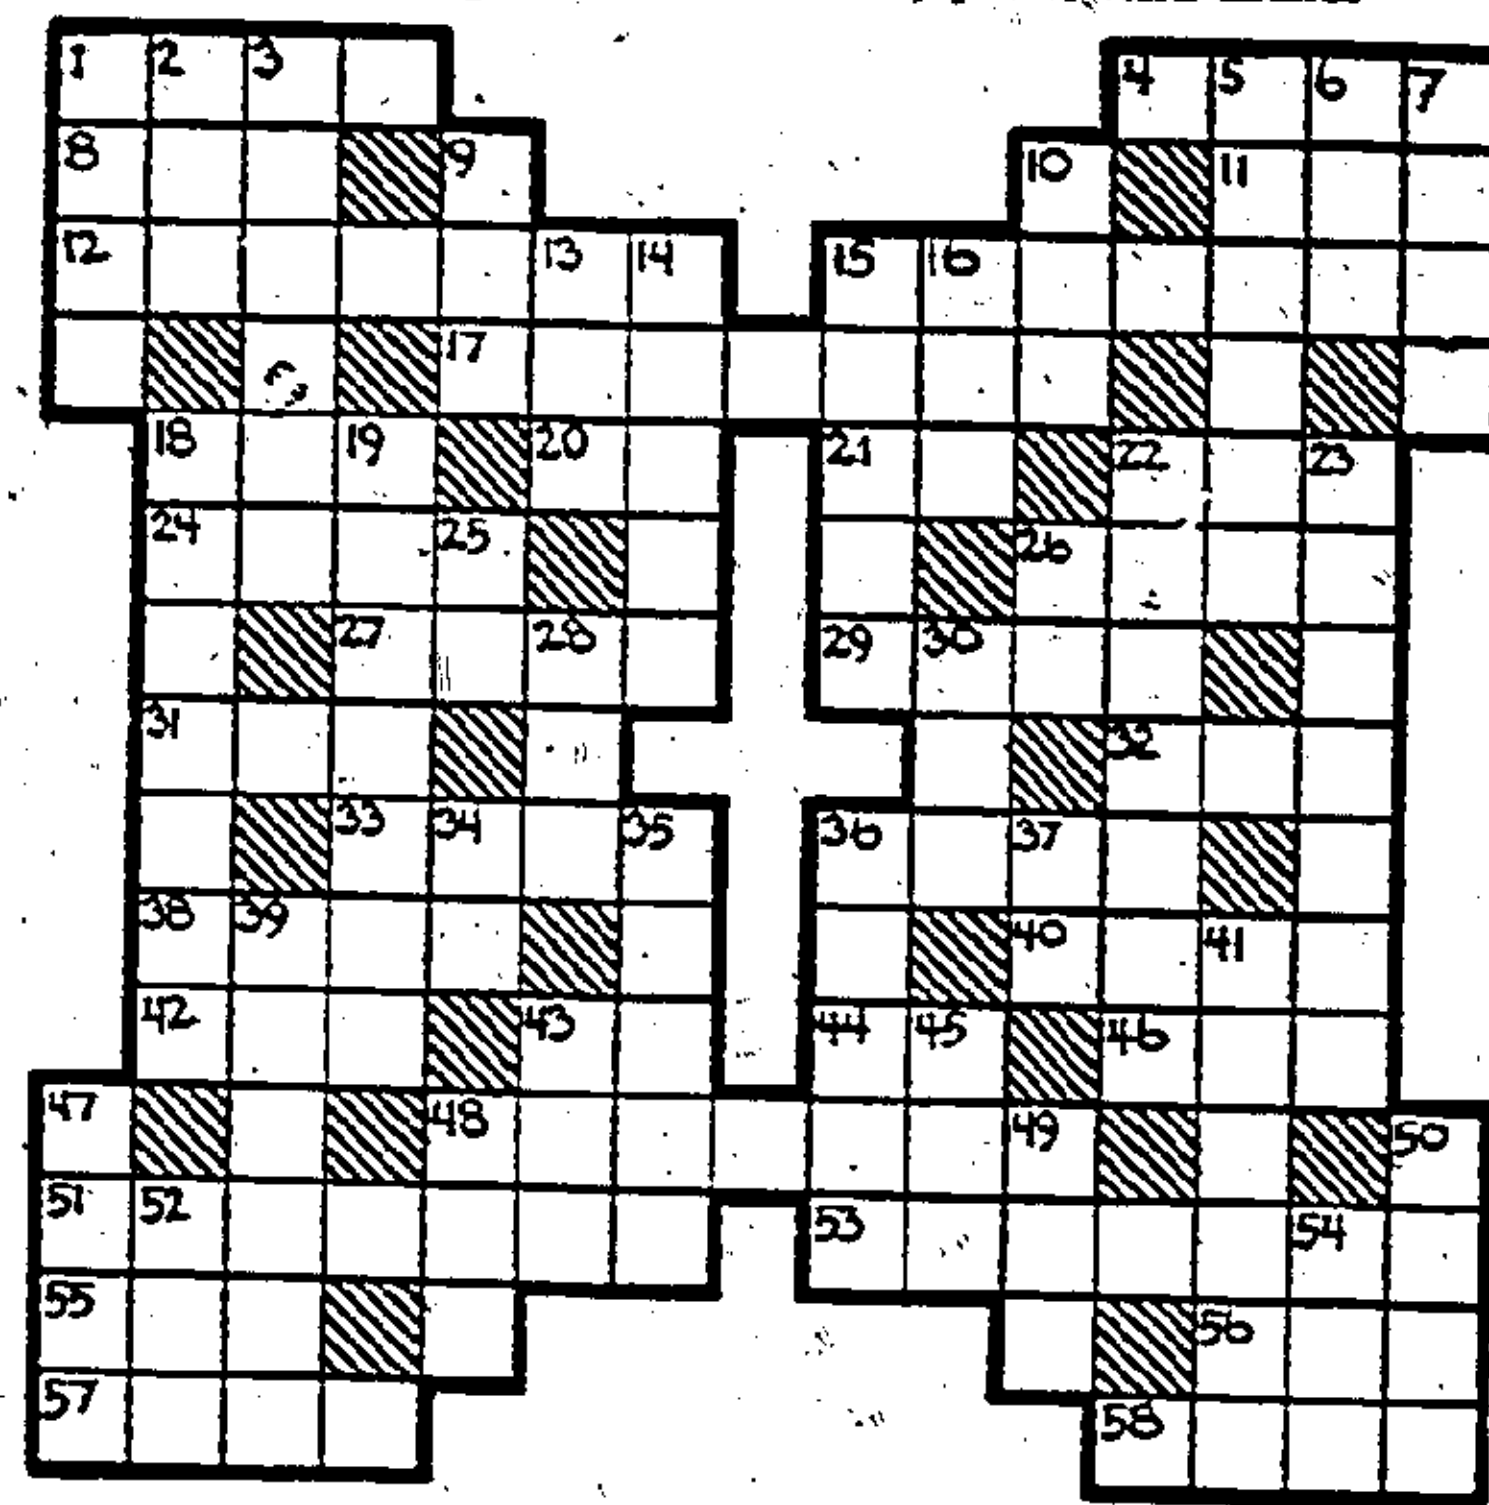

North opened his fourth highest spade and South's ten forced the king. The declarer's first play was to finesse the ten of hearts. Watson took the jack and, instead of blindly returning the jack of spades, thought deeply about the ensuing play. Unerringly he concluded that there was serious danger of a squeeze developing against North if he had a diamond stopper to protect and were given the added burden of guarding spades. On this shrewd analysis he did not lead back the jack of spades, the automatic play of almost every player, but, instead, returned the spade five.

Declarer won the ace and took a second heart finesse, which held. Next he cashed the third and fourth heart tricks, discarding a spade from his own hand, as did North, while South let go a diamond. Three rounds of clubs followed and now the wisdom of Watson's play became apparent. On the third round, if North had had to hold the spade queen to top dummy's eight, he would have been squeezed out of his diamond stopper. But with Watson holding

DANGEROUS DRUGS OFFENCE

Sentences Passed At Sessions

OVER 80,000 PILLS SEIZED

Yet another case under the Dangerous Drugs Ordinance was heard at the Criminal Sessions, before His Honour Sir Atholl MacGregor, this morning, when Chung Sze Hui Tung and a woman, Wong Yee-wa, were charged with the possession of 60 lb. 8 ozs. of pink paste containing an admixture of heroin and 12,700 heroin pills at No. 184, Des Voeux Road West, first floor, on July 22, last.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, was for the Crown, the defendants not being legally represented. The following jury was empanelled: Messrs. O. R. Benson (foreman), D. D. Forbes, H. M. dos Remedios, F. X. Gomes, J. A. T. Galvin, H. H. Mueller and Chiu Leung-cho.

Addressing the jury, Mr. Abbott said that on the morning in question, about 8.45 a.m., Revenue Officer Grimmit, in company with Mr. H. A. Taylor, Government Monopoly Analyst, went to No. 184, Des Voeux Road West, first floor, and Mr. Grimmit knocked at the door, which was not opened until about two minutes had elapsed. The party then went into the floor, which was very dimly lit, and on the premises, which appeared rather deserted, were a female and three children.

Complete Paraphernalia
Mr. Taylor, however, had his attention drawn to a rear cubicle and he went inside this, pushing aside a curtain in the process and feeling about for the switch to put on the light. When the light was on, they saw a table on which was a complete pill-making outfit, and sitting round the table were the three accused. In the background was a cupboard in which were five trays of pills in the process of being dried.

The next thing that happened, said Mr. Abbott, was that the hands of these people were examined and they were found to be ingrained with the red paste. They were, together with the paraphernalia, taken to the Import and Exports Office and the three accused were later taken to West Point Police Station and charged. The following were their replies to the charges which were read out and explained to them:

1st accused: "I have nothing to say."
2nd accused: "It is not mine."
3rd accused: "I came from Sheldung and worked as an amah only."

Mr. Abbott said that the lumps of pink paste found were enough to make 76,000 pills so that, together with the 12,700 finished pills there were over 88,000 pills on the premises.

Corroborative evidence was given by Revenue Officer Grimmit and Mr. H. A. Taylor.

Not Guilty Pleas

After the case for the prosecution had closed, the accused were asked if they wished to give evidence in the box or make a statement in the box, all three electing to adopt the latter course.

Chung Sze said: "I told all that I have to tell at the Lower Court proceedings. I want to make it clear to the Court, though, that I was there merely as an employee. There was a master who employed me. If Your Lordship thinks I am guilty according to the laws of Hong Kong, I ask Your Lordship to deal with me leniently."

Hui Tung said: "I was there visiting a friend. I was there for only one night and I was arrested the next morning."

The third accused, the woman Wong Yee-wa said: "I have come from Sheldung and was employed as an amah. I arrived here on July 20, and was arrested two days later. I went into this cubicle out of sheer curiosity and was not there long enough to warm the seat when the officers came and arrested me."

Sentence of 3½ years' hard labour was passed on each of the accused.

There will be a meeting of the Discussion Group in the West Lounge of the Y.M.C.A. next Sunday at 9 p.m.

DRUG OFFENDERS SENTENCED

Women To Get Same
Terms As Men

WARNING FROM THE BENCH

Sentences were passed by Sir Atholl MacGregor at the Criminal Sessions this morning on the people who were found guilty, on various charges under the Dangerous Drugs Ordinance, at the Sessions earlier in the week.

Wu Kong, Ng Shui and Lam Sit, who were charged with the possession of 674,000 heroin pills at No. 4, Ning Yeung Terrace, ground floor, on April 7, last, were each sentenced to four years' hard labour.

Man Yu, an unemployed Chinese, was given a term of three years' hard labour on a charge of possession of heroin paste and pills at No. 18, Tung Man Street, first floor, on June 30. The same sentence was meted out to Lai Kwai who had in his possession 27,600 heroin pills at No. 85 Gloucester Road, third floor, on July 10.

No Differentiation
Cheung Kwai (female), Lam Tai and Woo Chai were each given a period of 3½ years' hard labour on the charge of possession of 13½ pounds of pink paste containing diacetylmorphine and 30,845 heroin pills at No. 45a Wyndham Street, top floor, on July 29, last.

His Lordship, in addressing Cheung Kwai, said that it was usual for the Court to inflict lighter sentences on women who were charged with the same offence as men, but in cases of this nature he was not going to differentiate, as that would only be the means of encouraging those behind the scenes to engage women in this devilish traffic in the future.

His Lordship also mentioned that the sentences he inflicted at this Sessions were not light, but added that in future anybody brought before the Criminal Sessions under the Dangerous Drugs Ordinance would be more severely punished.

British Aircraft Ban

London: The unilateral action of the British Government to make effective the essentials of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war in anticipation of a general agreement among the interested Powers on the proposals drawn up by the French Government, was carried a stage further yesterday afternoon, when the Air Ministry issued the following announcement:

"In view of the decision of the Government to prohibit the export of aircraft to Spanish possessions and the Spanish zone of Morocco, any pilot convicted of an offence against the Air Navigation Order or Customs Acts by reason of having made a false declaration to the Customs authorities in respect of the destination or other particulars of aircraft will come under the consideration of the Secretary for Air, with a view to cancellation or suspension of his pilot's licence. All pilots are warned that a serious view will be taken of any attempt to deliver aircraft directly or indirectly to Spain or the above-mentioned territories in evasion of the Government prohibition."

PORTSMOUTH INCIDENT

The importance of the measures the Government has taken to secure the enforcement of the export of aircraft to Spain, imposed on Wednesday, was underlined by an incident which occurred at Portsmouth Aerodrome a few hours before the issue of the Air Ministry's warning to pilots. A statement made public later by Airspeed Limited describes what occurred.

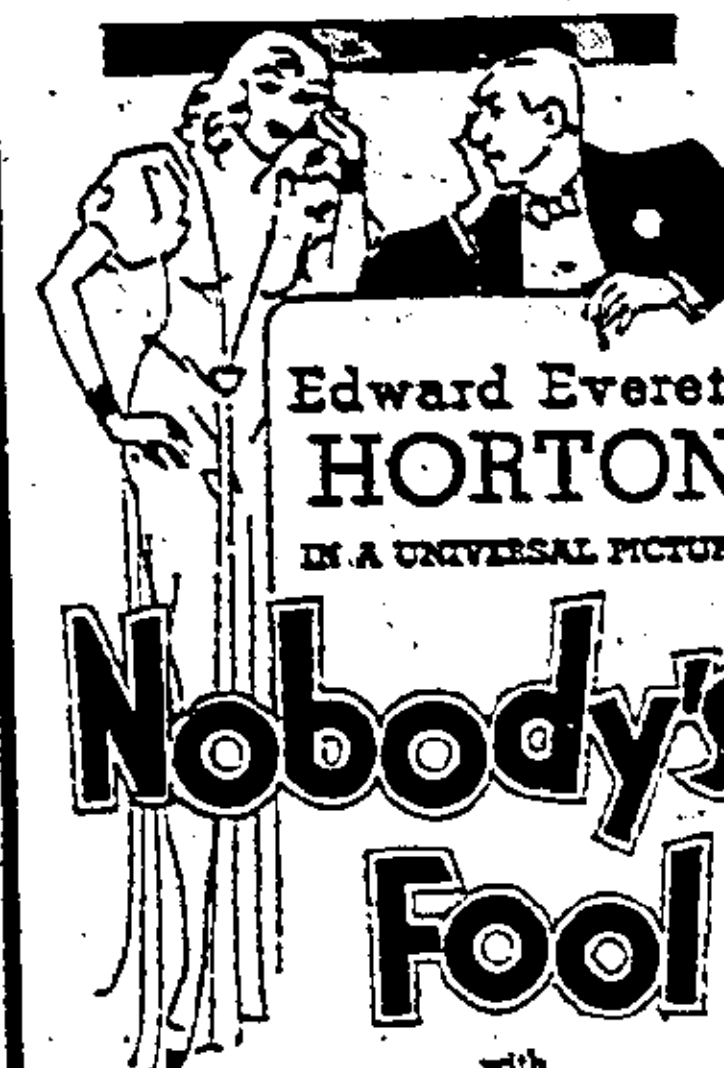

"Early to-day two woodworking employees of this company went into a hangar on Portsmouth Aerodrome and took out a Courier aeroplane, the property of the company. Neither of the men was a pilot. In this aeroplane they attempted to take off from the aerodrome but hit an obstruction on the boundary and crashed. Both men are seriously injured."

"Subsequent to the accident one of the men said they took the machine with the intention of flying to Spain. We take this opportunity of stating that the act was entirely unauthorised by this company who had no knowledge or cognisance of this foolhardy attempt."—British Wireless Service.
